1 2 Part 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	For a long time after this, the British suffered terribly from the raids of the Vikings. The raiders sailed quietly along the coast, or up a river, to some unsuspecting town. Then the warriors swarmed ashore to burn down the buildings and carry off all the treasure they could find. They also took people with them, to be used as slaves. Many of the Vikings joined together to form big armies. They conquered large parts of Britain and settled on the land. They were skilled seamen and had well-built long ships and attacked other lands too. They sailed to Spain, Italy, and Moroeco. They explored France by sailing up the rivers, and they traveled to the Mediterranean Sea and conquered Sicily.
	▶ 00:00 ● 00:00 ► Note: Your headset or speakers must be plugged into the audio-out jack in order to listen to this question.

Students can refer to Images/links and carefully go thru the description and then attempt the passage questions
